A SILVER ANNIVERSARY

Before "the lights went out" in 1914 a group of Ontario farmers had seen a vision, and as a result they organized twin movements, the United Farmers of Ontario, and the United Farmers' Co-operative Company. The two organizations were launched in the spring of 1914 and were tied together with a common secretary and to some extent common membership. The spectacular success and subsequent political "black-out" of the former organization is better known to the public. The United Farmers of Ontario were in control of the province's government five years later and, although they gave the province many good measures, they were unable to secure a renewal of their mandate and subsequently decided that they could help the farm more with a non-political movement. Since that time the U. F. O. has built up from a new beginning, appealing to people who want to help themselves through study and education. Today the U. F. O. as an educational movement is stronger than it ever was.

Twin Sister

What happened to the twin sister, the United Farmers' Co-operative Company? It has grown steadily and now has an annual turn-over in excess of $10,000,000. It is obviously on the way to an economic power greater than any political power which might be wielded by a farm party in office. This co-operative is now linked up with numerous small local co-operatives throughout the province and with other large co-operatives in the United States and Canada through a common organization.

While There's Hope

Just at the moment members of these twin Ontario organizations are getting ready to celebrate their silver anniversary. What is it all about? If they don't want political power, what is it that they do want, these farmers? An outsider would say they want harmony. They do not seek to improve the lot of the farmer through political action because that, however successful, arouses opposition from other class groups. Similarly, they buy and sell through co-operatives because in that way they can get whatever better prices or values there are to be obtained without fighting or clashing with other class groups. While their savings may be small, they see their power and advantages gradually increasing, as their organizations become stronger. They have hope of something better, and men can endure almost anything if they have hope.

A MISSED OPPORTUNITY

There begins to be talk of inflation. We had it during the last war, both the talk and the inflation. We had it during the great depression. Now governments have begun to do it again, to help a little with payment for the waste and carnage of war. What inflation is may be illustrated by a homely example. When we bought our potatoes a year ago a bag of potatoes contained 90 pounds. This year a bag of potatoes contains 75 pounds. If the farmers could have put that change over without informing the public of the difference and without changing their price per bag they would have achieved inflation, but farmers, as is well known, aren't as smart as governments (governments beat them every time).

"THANKSGIVING"

Monday was our annual day of thanksgiving. There were few so unhappy that they did not have something for which they were thankful. Most of us were glad to forget the war for a while and be thankful for health and the food we eat, for the roof over our heads, and the daily task that brings us our happiness. Then who among us wasn't thankful for these glorious autumn days, for the glorious colors of the foliage? For the wonderful country in which we live and the abundant harvests of our farms? But we can't forget the war for long. We can't be thankful for war and suffering. We can't be thankful for a European whirlpool which is even now sucking in Canadian boys. We can be thankful for the glimmer of vision which seems to exist, in spite of all the attempts to whip up hatreds between peoples. We can be thankful that there seems to be vision of a new and different world on the part of some of those who are influential in world affairs today. We can be thankful that even the German dictator sees that both sides will be losers in war. We can be thankful that among Britain's leaders are many who want victory not so that they may impose harsh terms upon the people of Germany, but so that they may free the German people of dictatorship and so that they may undo the mistakes which another generation of statesmen made at Versailles.

IN GOOD COMPANY

The Western Star of Curling, Newfoundland, quotes an editorial from The Era and then says that His Grace the Archbishop of York had voiced similar hopes in a more recent radio broadcast. That puts The Era in excellent company, and at the risk of boring our readers we reprint what we formerly had to say, in the form of the editorial from the Newfoundland newspaper.

"A hope, says the Newmarket, Ont., Era, is that very early in the war our governments may enunciate the points for which we are fighting. Already they are making direct appeals to the German people, and they may decide to tell them at once what treatment they will receive in the event of an allied victory. They may tell them, for instance, that they will have to give up Czechoslovakia, that they will be allowed to keep the Sudetenland, that they will be allowed to remain united with Austria, what is to be the future status of Danzig and the corridor, whether Germany is to have any of her 1914 colonies restored, whether Germany must disarm, whether Hitler alone is to be blamed for the destruction and death in Poland. We may in this way bring about the hoped-for revolution of the German people and at the same time, by committing ourselves in advance, avoid a vindictive peace like Versailles.

"Similar expressions were contained in the talk given by His Grace the Archbishop of York on Sunday and broadcast over the B.C.C."

AN OPTIMISTIC VIEW

Dr. R. E. Maresch, an Austrian, now associated with Pickering College, left his homeland early this year as a fugitive from Nazism. He served in the Austrian army during the last war, and was taken prisoner by the Russians. He is quoted by the Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin as predicting in an address in Barrie that revolution would begin in Germany in four months and that the war would be over within 11 months. It is certainly to be hoped that that will prove a correct prophecy. Such an end to the war, without "victory," as that would make possible, would please most people in this country, who, so far as we can observe, have little desire to cause suffering to the mistreated German people.

"SPEED-TRAPS" WANTED

The Stouffville Tribune says, "Let's have the speed-traps, and safe driving all the time." The law-abiding motorist has nothing to fear from a so-called speed-trap. And when the Aurora and Newmarket police allow a ten-mile leeway over the speed limit even those who do not stick to the letter of the law have no need to worry.

PEACE OR REVENGE?

Hatred and passion may be useful in winning the war against Germany but they are also likely to dictate the kind of peace that means yet another war. We would like our readers to read the following editorial from the Midland Free Press:

"If peace cannot be achieved on Hitler's terms how then can it come about? What sort of a treaty can be signed which will give assurance to the world, that it will not again have to take up arms against a resurgent Germany? The first requisite is that it will have to be made with a brand new German government which has no Nazis in it. "Whatever the peace be it must differ from Versailles in its spirit. Revenge was a large factor in determining the clauses of that treaty, and one can quite understand why France should have been actuated by such motives. Their country had been devastated and the flower of their manhood destroyed. Versailles, however, was a failure. It proved impossible to enforce its terms and to hold in long time subjection a nation of 80 million people. This time there must be a new approach.

"The terms of peace must be such as to win the friendship and confidence of the German people. The British government set such a pattern in its treatment of the Boers at the end of the South African war. Now the Boers are our firm friends and in two wars have lined up voluntarily on the British side. We must aid the German people in the establishment and maintenance of a democratic form of government. The democratic movement in Germany under Gustave Stresemann failed because French and British support was not given. Hitler became possible when German democracy failed to function.

"There must be no second mistake," said Anthony Eden in a world-wide broadcast the other day.

"Out of the welter of suffering to be endured we must fashion a new world that is something better than a stale reflection of the old, bled white. The suffering will be bitter, the devastation wide. But what really matters is what follows after.

"Can we do better this time? Can we finally rid Europe of barriers of caste and creed and prejudice? Can frontiers and faiths, language and commerce serve to unite nations and not divide them? Can we create a true unity in Europe? Can we set before it a common aim of service? Can we inspire it with common ideals of freedom, tolerance and mercy? This is what must be."

"Writing to the London Times, the distinguished British author and playwright, A. A. Milne, recalls that in the last war we were wont to distinguish between the Kaiser and the German people, and that, after the Kaiser had fled, we made a treaty of peace with the German people. Our representatives at Versailles promptly forgot that the new government was not responsible for the war, yet they dictated terms and enforced penalties upon it. Mr. Milne goes on to say:

"May I urge that it be made clear now to the German people, as it so abundantly clear to the British people, that from now on no peace will ever be possible again with the present rulers of Germany; but that an honorable peace, undictated and void of penal clauses, will be negotiated gladly at any moment with an elected assembly representative of the German people. As the first point in our peace terms, let us proclaim unequivocally that a totalitarian state which is neither more nor less than an autocracy, can have no place in a civilized world. Our leaders have been accustomed to say, with a politeness derived from years of diplomacy, and the old school lie, that a nation's form of government is its own concern. It is not; it is the very grave concern of its neighbors. A totalitarian state is shaped for war, educated for war, and only in war can it fulfil its destiny. We are fighting not to make the world safe for democracy, but because we are convinced that only by democracy can the world be saved, only under democracy can the world live at peace."

LOVE FAT FELLOWS

"The flies are almost eating us alive," says the editor of the Dundalk Herald. "At this season of the year especially flies like thin folks but they simply love fat fellows, hence our disfigurement. As we ponder over in our none-too-fertile mind whether we shall take another blast at Hitler, discuss the possibilities of a big offensive on the western front before the snow flies, or give our reasons for wanting the Cincinnati Reds to trounce the highly-touted Yankees in the world series, the flies are seeking to distract us completely from our editorial duties."

The Common Round

THE NEED TO THANK
By Isabel Inglis Colville

If it is ever our good fortune to do a little favor to give help or pleasure, even although we do not do it to be thanked, we feel a glow of pleasure, a warm feeling around our hearts, when thanks is expressed. We all know people who seem unable to express their gratitude — they may feel it, but the lack of expression leaves a coldness, and I often think the Divine Creator and Benefactor must wonder at our seeming inability to talk so much and think so little, for at all times, even with war and its horrors looming large, we can find causes for thankfulness.

With our thankfulness this year has mingled much sadness. We cannot feel the joyousness of other years gone, all the carefree celebrations. Thanksgiving has been more a holiday than a holiday. We think of the fathers, mothers, wives and sweethearts of those who are in our training-camps, and who, for the duration of the war, must company with fear. We think of homes here in Canada bereaved already through the war, and we cannot but mention two men, the Rev. Wm. Allan, who was a friend through his radio talks to many who never saw him, and Mr. Mustard, whose contribution to the educational life of our country has been of untold value — their passing is a dominion-wide loss.

Then, the wage-earners and housekeepers see prices of food-stuffs, fuel, clothing, in fact all the necessities, soaring — and, with no wage increase to meet the rise. And then we grumble a little, which, being British citizens, we have a perfect right to do, after which, we face the facts and find that we would be an ungrateful people if we did not give thanks.

Just to step outside these blue and gold mornings gives one a reason for thankfulness — there's a tang in the air that makes even middle-aged blood dance in the veins, and gives assurance of the ultimate victory of good. From farm to farm, the corn-cutters are making their pilgrimages, and the farmers' wives are coping bountifully and successfully with appetites sharpened by the cool freshness of the days. If the animal folk could talk, they would be uttering peans of thanksgiving for the good food being provided for them, against the pastureless days ahead. We can sleep at night in security, if we do not imagine that burglars may be investigating the premises, but at any rate, no threat of air-raids makes us dread the night.

We are not a tiny country, hemmed in by great nations, demanding this and that from us, in pain of gobbling us up, should and first for team of roadsters. Gifford Mann won two firsts and one third with his trotters. It is said that by carrying the Hydro-Electric railway by-law in Newmarket, we will have 24-hour electric power and light from Niagara. Two men were accidentally shot at the shooting gallery at the fair on Wednesday afternoon when the bullets went wide of the target. Both men are getting along nicely. While crossing Main St. at the post office corner on Wednesday afternoon, Alfred McCarthy, a man over 80 years of age, was knocked down by an auto and considerably bruised. He was able to be around yesterday. The driver turned the narrow corner so quickly that he could not stop in time to prevent the accident. The fall fair was one of the most successful held yet. Over 4,000 people were at the grounds on Wednesday. It has greatly improved the post office, in Mount Albert, by lowering the floor so as to do away with the steps. A new floor has been laid in both stores and post office. Newmarket horses did well at the Sutton Fair. R. J. Mathewson won first for gentleman's turnout

The unusual phenomenon of four

VERY YOUNG CHIPS MEETS SOME LITTLE KINGS

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

Very Young Chips, the Chickadee, was spending the morning with his father and mother and some of their friends in a clump of evergreen trees on the edge of the road.

"I want to introduce you to some friends of ours this morning, who are new to you," his father, Young Chips, said to him. "They have arrived here recently from a summer farther north," he explained.

"Do you mean those tiny little olive-green birds flitting in and out among the trees?" asked Very Young Chips. "Who are they?"

"Yes," answered Young Chips. "They're the smallest birds that we ever see around here, except for the Hummingbirds. They are Kinglets. I'll introduce you to this chap over here, who's hanging from the tip of that branch, head downward. That's a trick of theirs. This is my son, Very Young Chips, Mr. Golden-crowned Kinglet."

"How do you do, my boy," responded the Kinglet. "I'm very glad to meet a member of your family. We have always been friends of the Chickadees."

"Please sir," Very Young Chips said to him politely, "would you mind keeping still for just a moment so that I can see what you look like? You seem to hop and flit about so much I can hardly see you."

"All right," laughed the tiny Kinglet. "But you Chickadees are restless like we are too, you know. We're supposed to be much alike in our habits. I'll keep still a second for you, though."

Very Young Chips was then able to see that the Kinglet was yellowish green above and dull white below, and he had a little black-edged cap, with a band of yellow inside the black and a spot of orange in the centre. He had a black line through his eye and a showy white eyebrow line above it. As the Chickadee watched him the Kinglet flitted away and he turned to examine another of the little birds.

"Why, that one hasn't got the orange spot on the top," exclaimed Very Young Chips. "The middle of his cap is all yellow."

"That's Mrs. Golden-crowned Kinglet," said his father. "Well, my goodness! Who is that one there, then?" inquired Very Young Chips in bewilderedment.

"The one over there, who keeps fluttering his wings every little while," explained, Very Young Chips. "He gave quite a pretty warbling song then—loud and clear. And the little patch on his head looks red. It's hard to see though. I might be wrong."

"No, it's quite a bright red," said the other Chickadee. "And that's a male Ruby-crowned Kinglet, a first cousin of the Golden-crowned. He hasn't got the eyebrow and face marks or the black-edged crown of the other family, but otherwise he is very much like him. And his wife has no bright color on her head at all."

"Oh, my tail feathers!" ejaculated the young Chickadee. "They're certainly a lot of different costumes in the Kinglet family. And now I see one who isn't like any that I've been looking at so far. Right over there."

"That must be a young Golden-crowned," Young Chips told him. "He's got the black and white face marks, but no yellow or golden crown yet. I hope you'll remember all these different birds' names, because they'll probably be spending a lot of their time with our crowd this fall."

"I'll remember, if I see some tiny little birds with bright crowns, that they are 'little kings' of some kind," promised Very Young Chips. "But it may take me a little time to get to recognize them quickly."

"The Golden-crowned family are the ones giving that fine 'tee-tee' call," the older Chickadee added. "Here's your mother. She looks upset."

"That nice White-throated Sparrow lady just found one of her young ones lying dead on the road," Merry Chickadee told them. "The mother thinks the poor little thing must have been hit by a car."

"What a shame!" Young Chips said. "The White-throats, or Canada birds, are such a nice family and their lovely song. 'Sweet-sweet-Can-a-da-Can-a-da-Can-a-da' is quite famous. Of course, in the autumn when there are so many young ones among the migrating white-throats, we more often just hear snatches of it."

"It will certainly give Mrs. White-throat sad memories of Newmarket—having a thing like this happen," said Merry. "And the only time we ever see them here is in the spring and fall, when they are just travelling through."

"Those look like Rusty Blackbirds, over there across the road," chirped Young Chips just then. "Let's go over and make sure."

"Have I ever seen them before?" inquired his son.

"No, and you won't now, unless we hurry," said Young Chips. "Come on."

POLICE COURT

BUYS TRUCK AND FINDS LIEN ON IT

Convicted on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, Wm. Albert Russell, East Gwillimbury township, was sentenced to jail for two months, his premises were declared public, and 30 quarts of beer found by the police were ordered confiscated, by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in police court here on Tuesday.

On Sept. 19 County Constable Ronald Watt testified that an "operator" was sent into Russell's place to purchase beer with two marked quarters and that later he and Sergeant Barraclough entered the premises and found the beer and the two quarters which Russell had. Defence Counsel A. J. G. Wilson stated on Sept. 19 that as Russell was technically under arrest when the constables entered his house with a search warrant that no statements Russell had made at that time could be used as evidence and he asked that the case be adjourned for further hearing so that the "operator" could testify.

The "operator," James Stewart, Toronto, testified that he went to Russell's in September with the two police officers and that they gave him two marked quarters and he went into the house. "I talked with Russell for some time and then I asked him for a bottle of beer and he got it for me. I gave him the two marked quarters for the quart of beer and he gave me 15 cents change. I drank the beer in the house and then went out to where the constables were waiting."

"Did you ever work around Holland Landing?" asked Mr. Wilson.

"Yes," answered Mr. Stewart.

"Did you know Russell previous to your visit?" "Yes."

"Did Russell ask you at any time for money for the beer?"

"He told me that this was the only way he had to make money."

"Were you paid for your work by the police?" "Only what they chose to give me."

County Constable Watt was recalled and he gave the same evidence as on Sept. 19.

"Is Russell a bricklayer by trade?" asked Mr. Wilson.

"I think he has been a bricklayer," answered Constable Watt. The magistrate asked for the defence and Russell was called to the witness-box.

"Stewart came to my house and sympathized with me about losing my wife and we talked about the hard times for about 15 minutes and then he told me he was going to Bradford to get some beer," testified Russell. "He then asked me if I had any beer and I said yes and went and got a bottle."

"Did Stewart ask you to sell him some beer?" asked Mr. Wilson.

"No," answered Russell. "I was going to give Stewart the beer because the last I knew him he was hard up. We had no discussion about money. Stewart just threw the money on the table and said that I couldn't afford to give him the beer."

"Why did you give Stewart 15 cents change?" asked Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K. C.

"Because he told me he would only have to pay 35 cents for a bottle at Bradford," answered Russell.

"Is 35 cents a quart your usual charge for selling beer?" asked Mr. Mathews. "No, I don't sell beer."

Convicted on a charge of attempting to pass a car when the road ahead was not clear of approaching traffic, Wm. J. Reid, Toronto, was fined $5 and costs.

Provincial Constable A. O. Ferguson stated that the Reid car turned out of the line of traffic and forced him over onto the shoulder of Yonge St.

"You must be sure there is no traffic coming before you attempt to pass," Magistrate Woodliffe told Reid.

On a charge of vagrancy William Hill, no address, was fined $10 and costs, or five days. Hill was arrested last Thursday and was held in custody till Tuesday, so he had already served his time.

Constable Carl Morton, North Gwillimbury, testified that he found Hill near Roche's Point after he had received complaints about him begging at several homes.

A charge of false pretences laid against Norman Elmer, Aurora, was adjourned another week for further hearing. Bail of $1,000 was renewed. Harry Rose, Toronto, is defence counsel.

"Elmer was out of work and he had a truck, so he approached me about buying it," testified Archie Cousins, Aurora. "I gave him a cheque for $400 and also another truck for his. I inquired if there was any lien on the truck and he said no. He told me he had purchased the truck in Hamilton and he went over there to make sure it was clear of debt. Elmer cashed the cheque and I still have the truck I purchased from him."

"Did any person present you with a document after your deal with Elmer?" asked Mr. Mathews. "Yes," answered Mr. Cousins. "A finance company from Toronto sent a representative and showed me a document and told me I had to pay $59 in order to hold the truck. The representative told me there was around $300 owing on the truck. As soon as I learned about the lien on the truck I consulted my lawyer, Mr. Wilson, Aurora."

"How much would you say that Elmer's truck was worth?" asked Mr. Rose.

"I would say that it was worth around $600, as it had been in an accident and was not in very good condition," answered Mr. Cousins. "I have spent around $300 in repairs for it."

"You have the truck back now that you dealt to Elmer haven't you?" "Yes."

"Didn't you get the truck back several weeks before the charge was laid?" "Yes."

"Have you disposed of this truck yet?" "No, but I have been trying to."

"Did you know that Elmer had paid $100 on the lien?" "The company told me he had."

"Didn't your lawyer go to see Elmer and make arrangement for him to pay $200?" asked Mr. Rose.

"No," answered Mr. Cousins. "I knew Mr. Wilson had been in touch with Elmer but I didn't know any such arrangement had been made."

"After you found out about the lien what did you want Elmer to pay?"

"I wanted him to pay the amount owing to the finance company. I left it to Mr. Wilson, as I knew he was trying to make a settlement with Elmer. When Clifford Case was acting for Elmer he asked me if I would accept $150 and I refused."

"Didn't you take the truck that you had dealt to Elmer from a parking lot in Toronto?"

"Yes, I took it after paying the parking charges, as Elmer was supposed to have the name Cousins painted over and he hadn't done it."

A. J. G. Wilson, Aurora, testified that he had talked to Elmer on behalf of his client, Mr. Cousins, and that Elmer admitted to him that he had sold the truck to Cousins knowing that there was a lien on it.

"What settlement were you trying to make with Elmer?" asked Mr. Rose.

"We insisted on security of $200 and trusted to collect the rest of the money owing on the truck," answered Mr. Wilson.

The hearing was then adjourned for one week so that Mr. Wilson could produce his file containing a certificate left at Elmer's house and other papers relative to the case.

Bail of $1,000 each was reduced to $500 each for two youths, both of Kewick, and the pair were remanded in custody until bail is raised. The charge which will be heard next week is that the pair did break and enter the store of Cameron Bros. in North Gwillimbury and steal

A THANKSGIVING TRIP

By REV. R. E. McMAITH

Thanksgiving morning was rather gloomy and it looked as if it might have rain, but it did not dampen the spirits of three carloads of my S. S. class as we set out for a trip to the Falls. We did have a shower before we reached Brampton but after that it was a lovely day and the sun was lavish in his afternoon favors.

We left at 8:45 and as we turned south on Yonge St. from Eagle, we met a color greeted us! Everyone in the car gave a deep sigh and shouted, "Oh, look at the trees! Aren't they lovely?" No thoughts of an old military road, or of oxen and anchors of days long past, but a joyous thanksgiving for the Lord of creation and for the beauty of His handiwork.

From Thornhill to Brampton is a nice drive. At this season of the year the traffic is not so heavy and one can afford to take his eyes off the road and enjoy the sights of the countryside.

I like the swoop down at Woodbridge and the "Whoop-up" of the other side. One of the things we always said that even God could not make was "two hills without a hollow" and that spot on number seven highway is proof of our argument. I only wish the village were on the highway, for I like that village very much.

At Brampton we turned south to Cooksville and then turned east on number five. The drive along number five is delightful. There are two bridges: one over a ravine and the other over a delightful little streamlet. There are times when the driver just hates to slow up but both of these scenes were so commanding that one just had to remove his foot from the accelerator. A wide open space and lovely hillsides with a large variety of trees made perfect pictures—pictures you see only once, for, by tomorrow they have changed. A huge sign with an arrow pointing south and which had the name "Burlington" printed on it invited us to travel that way. What a long street is Burlington, and the speed limit of 30 is maintained! It is a favorite summer resort, though everything seemed quiet on our passing through. It is supposed that the name of the place is a corruption of Bridlington, after a town of that name in Yorkshire, England.

The original name of the place was "Wellington Square," so called by Chief Joseph Brame, who was presented to the queen by the Duke of Wellington.

From Burlington we entered the "Highway Circle" and round and round we went, following sign numbered 20, until suddenly we were passing the monument at Stoney Creek. From there on to the Falls is a lovely countryside. The highway is first-class, having been built only two years ago. One just spins along and a flat only took ten minutes of precious time. And doesn't time get precious as you near your destination? Anticipation ran high. We arrived safely, and after a delightful lunch we went to view the Falls. Another deep sigh.

Travelling down "20" our first sight was of the American falls. We parked and walked around all afternoon. Niagara is most likely a Huron Indian word which means, "Thunderer of waters." We were thrilled as we viewed the Canadian falls. The spray was rising as high as the falls and we could feel it fall on us like rain, even at the distance. At the moment a fence has been erected some distance from the actual falls and soldiers are on guard. Such protection is not being taken on the American side, as we could see across, and it seemed to us many were there at the water edge.

The spot from which King George and Queen Elizabeth viewed the Falls is marked by a stone, onto which we climbed and posed for our photo snaps.

The American falls looked a little prettier to us because they were strewn their way through woods or trees of color, but of course one machine containing $60 cash and valued at $100 in all, the property of Cameron Bros.

Bail of $200 each was renewed for two Aurora youths charged with breaking and entering into Mingay's garage at Aurora and committing theft. The charge was adjourned one week for hearing.

Several liquor charges were also adjourned one week for hearing owing to the death of Inspector Wm. Brimacombe, who was to have secured some additional witnesses.

For driving their trucks with a load of excess width, Leonard Kanke, Nobleton, and A. E. Cook, Malton, were each fined $5 and costs.

Wm. G. Fielding, Windsor, speeding, $15 and costs, charge laid by Provincial Constable A. O. Ferguson.

Eric Bright, Toronto, speeding, $10 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

Russell Sluth, Scarborough township, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable J. Jardine, East Gwillimbury.

Nat Dymont, Toronto, speeding, $8 and costs, charge laid by Constable Jardine.

Garage Supply Co. Ltd., Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Jardine.

Standard Wholesalers, Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Jardine.

George Sheppard Printing Co., Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Jardine.

Paul Beer, Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable K. Mount, Newmarket.

Thompson Bros. Ltd., speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Mount.

they are much smaller. It is estimated that 3,190,000 gallons of water pass over the falls every second and only seven per cent of that passes over the American falls. The contour of the American falls is 1,060 feet while that of the Canadian or "horseshoe" is 3,010 feet.

A ramble through the gardens was most thrilling. How delightful the flowers are and the roses even at this time of year. Of interest to us was the pond and the swans and goldfish. We prowled through the souvenir shops and admired the many things our purses forbade us purchase. We obeyed the commandment, "thou shalt not covet" (!!!).

We left at 4:15 and drove to the whirpool and then to the aerial car. Both interesting sights. Then we drove to Queenston Heights and there we stood on sacred ground. Perhaps we are only human if our blood pressure went up a little and our temperature was a little higher. Who can be British or Canadian, if you will, and not recall the heroic past and be proud, as you look at the monument of Laura Secord? That heroine of yesterday. Proudly her monument stands and daily tells its tale afresh, but her spirit moves still more among the womanhood of our land at this hour.

And that huge monument to Brock! The brave Sir Isaac, who gave his life for Canada at the age of 43. The hero who never knew he was "Sir," he having died before the honor was bestowed. However—honors must be continually his. Hundreds daily bare their heads as they approach his monument, for his memory is dear to us and the sight of the monument awakens a new remembrance. He from his height bids welcome to every boat-load of visitors as they approach the Heights and one's view of him as the boat departs would almost have him say, "You are the honored sons of sires who cared," and, "to you from failing hands we throw the torch."

One voice, one people, one in heart And soul and feeling and desire. Re-light the smouldering martial

And sound the mute trumpet! Strike the lyre!

The hero dead cannot expire: The dead still play their part. No tongue can blazon forth their fame—

The cheers that stir the sacred hill Are but mere promptings of the will

That conquers them, that conquers still; And generations yet shall thrill At Brock's remembered name.

(Sangster)

From Queenston we turned home by route "eight." This brought us through a fruit section. Indeed, one word that could rightfully be written over all that countryside is "FRUIT." It was fruit being cultivated, fruit being gathered, fruit being packed and fruit being sent to every corner and at every corner and at every cross-roads. Wineries were plentiful and we ate supper at "Vineland," a small village.

Having made the "circle" again, by following the signs, though not understanding the idea, we soon found ourselves passing through Burlington homeward bound. Highly electrified signs indicated the Queen Elizabeth Way, so we followed the directions and ventured to travel on the finest highway in Canada. Too bad it was dark. How easy it is to travel on such a highway, even after night. Everything possible is indicated; the edge of the road, the end of the bridge, the side-roads, etc., etc. Colors in abundance to speak their own message.

Presently we came upon the clover-leaf and to our delight we easily found out how to circle around and read the sign: "straight ahead for Brampton."

Safely home by nine thirty we were a little tired, but we all agreed the day had been well spent. We had seen a little more of our country; we had admired our past; the characters and deeds we had read about lived anew for us; we thanked God for Canada, and are proud to be Canadians; and in years to come when we are much older, we shall, with delight, remember Thanksgiving, 1939.

At a small but enthusiastic meeting held in the town hall on Tuesday evening officers for the Aurora junior hockey club were elected as follows:

Honorary presidents: Dr. C. R. Boulding, Mayor J. M. Walton, Reeve J. A. Knowles, A. M. Brydon, C. S. Richardson, W. J. Sisman, W. P. Mulock, M.P.; Morgan Baker, M.L.A., G. Y. Leacock, J. Bowser.

With the exception of Messrs. Malloy and Pattenden, none of the newly-elected officers have previously held office with the club. Particular tribute was paid to the services rendered by C. A.

PITCHFORK DROPS ON WORKMAN

Ted Rowe, son of Mrs. Bert Rowe, Gurnett St., suffered a painful injury last week while at work at the T. Sisman shoe factory.

Rowe was about to destroy some waste material when a pitchfork, hanging from a beam above him, became dislodged, and struck him a heavy blow on the right foot, striking a nerve centre. He will be off work for a number of weeks, but the injured foot is progressing favorably.

Malloy, Frank Lacey, Ewart Pinder, Bill West, and Stewart Patrick. All these expressed themselves as willing to give their full co-operation to the new executive.

While no definite opinion was reached as to what series the team will enter, or the grouping desired, it may be expected that an announcement concerning these matters and the appointment of a coach will be made in the near future. Present indications are that Aurora will have a team worth cheering and will again be a serious contender for O. H. A. honors.

Citizens who heard the crash of glass on Yonge St. Monday afternoon thought a break-in was occurring but investigation proved that in a friendly scuffle between two or three local youths one had been hurled into one of the windows of Rowland's men's furnishing store.

The boys immediately reported the damage to Mr. Rowland, and agreed to install a new plate of glass at their own expense.

Youngster, With Aid Of Handicap, Captures Race

CLIFF CHAPMAN AGAIN MAKES BEST TIME IN ROAD RACE

Never headed from the starting-gun, 14-year-old Lorne Fleury finished in first place in the Thanksgiving Day road race held by the Aurora cycling club.

He had a ten-minute handicap over the scratch rider, Cliff Chapman. The young gamecock road a great race and club officials are predicting a bright future for the littlest rider of them all.

The race got under way about three o'clock on a tricky, wet pavement that gave an added thrill to the race, over the uphill and downhill course. At the finish the real race of the day was for fourth, fifth and sixth places with the Foster brothers and Art Bunn battling doggedly from the half-way mark.

Chapman, who earlier in the day had raced in the 25-mile Warren C. C. road race from Don Mills Road and Danforth to Unionville and return, was the cup winner for the best time, and overtook all his opponents who

Close Competition Marks Field Events

NEW CHAMPIONS ESTABLISHED AT PUBLIC SCHOOL FIELD DAY

NOT YET FINISHED

With the completion of the junior boys' high jump event on Wednesday, title-holders were decided in every class of the Aurora public school field day. This event, along with the intermediate girls' high jump, was not completed last Friday when the annual meet was held in the town park.

Despite threatening skies, Principal John G. McDonald and his staff provided a great program of events for the many proud parents who were on hand to see their young hopefuls participate in a display of talent that was a credit to all concerned. There were special races for the tots, including wheel-barrow, hoop, and coat races and throughout the whole proceedings there was a barrel of fun for both contestants and spectators.

In the senior classes honors fell to Eric Bilbrough and Vanetta Maaten, who were closely pressed by Jim Hanson and Margaret Salge respectively. Bilbrough's performance in the high jump and Maaten's finish in the relay race were the highlights of the day.

In the intermediate girls' section Jacqueline Thompson finished in front with Maylis Sisman runner-up. The high jump event in this class has not yet been completed but the result will have no bearing on individual honors.

Verna Pugh nosed out Betty Corbett by one point in the junior girls' events, while Jim Bryan topped Doug Watson by two points when he placed second in the postponed high jump yesterday.

All members of the school staff and punctiliously every pupil gave their best to make this a day of days and good sportsmanship prevailed on every side between winners and losers.

Senior boys' races, age 13, C. Seath, D. Ferguson, D. Gilkes; age 14, E. Bilbrough, S. Lipsky, B. Stephens; age 15, E. Ash, J. Hanson, E. Simpson; standing broad jump, E. Simpson, J. Hanson, E. SCHOMBERG W. A. CELEBRATES ITS GOLDEN JUBILEE

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican church celebrated their golden jubilee this week.

On Sunday the entire W. A. membership took corporate communion at the morning service. The rector, Rev. F. V. Abbott, spoke from the W. A. text, "The love of Christ constraineth us."

On Tuesday, the celebration continued with a meeting in the afternoon, at which were guests from the other W. M. S. societies of the United and Presbyterian churches, as well as from Bond Head, Tottenham, King, Woodbridge, Kettleby and Nobleton. Following a prayer service by the rector, Rev. F. V. Abbott, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. R. J. Hulise, a charter member, and also a member continuously for the 50 years. Names of departed members were read by the president, Mrs. V. Marchant, and a silence observed in their memory. A history of the Lloydtown W. A. was given by Mrs. J. Hulise, Islington, the first secretary and Miss G. Amey, the deanery officer.

Mrs. Haines of Sharon brought a message and the guest speaker was Mrs. Gossage, a diocesan officer. Special music was given in a duet by Mrs. Wm. Marchant and Mrs. Hulse, sisters, a solo by Mrs. A. H. MacLeod, accompanied by Mrs. G. Hulse. All are W. A. members.

Following the meeting a tea was served in the auditorium in the basement. The guests were received by Mrs. E. Marchant and Mrs. R. Hulse, Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. J. Brydon.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Wm. Marchant and Mrs. Dillane, past presidents. The charter members were given a place of honor. They were Mrs. R. Hulse, Mrs. J. Hulise, Mrs. E. Marchant and Mrs. A. Borden.

A pleasant social time was spent at the tea table. The birthday cake with 50 lighted candles was cut by the oldest charter member, Mrs. E. Marchant. A pleasant feature was the presentation of bouquets of roses to Mrs. E. Marchant and Mrs. Hulse, from the W. A., by Mrs. V. Marchant. Some of those assisting were: Mrs. H. Carter, Mrs. E. Stonehouse, Mrs. E. A. Stuckey, Mrs. D. A. Wauchope, Miss Audrey Marchant, Miss D. McKinley, Miss Mary Gould, Mrs. I. Hulse and others.

This event so long planned was somewhat marred by the serious illness of the treasurer, Mrs. Nelson Wauchope. Mrs. Wauchope underwent an operation this week.

The Anglican W. A. met last Thursday afternoon, Oct. 5, at the home of Mrs. George Hulse, the president. Mrs. V. Marchant conducted the meeting. Much business was discussed and the date for the hot supper was set for Nov. 9. Mrs. R. Hulse gave a missionary reading. The meeting closed with the national anthem.

On Friday afternoon the ladies of the Presbyterian church held a sale of articles and afternoon tea in the church basement.

EVERSLEY TWO FORMER RESIDENTS OF COMMUNITY DIE

Though not being able to attend the memorial service for the late Rev. Wm. Allen, of Dovercourt Presbyterian church, many here bowed their heads and hearts in memory of this gifted son of Scotland. His morning devotional periods were helpful and delightful, while his Sunday evening musings were gems of literature. Friends know he is even now in his higher "Blessed Bonnie" home.

The many friends of Mrs. Walter Gellatly, nee Marguerite Ezard, are showering her with gifts.

It is with deep regret that the passing of that fine old gentleman of King, Mr. Colin Sinclair, who passed away at the home of his son in Orillia, is chronicled.

The funeral service was held in the King United church on Tuesday afternoon, with his pastor, Rev. M. E. Burch, and Rev. D. Davis officiating.

Mr. Sinclair had been in failing health for the past two years, and was lovingly cared for by his daughter, Mrs. Ransom, now Mrs. Williams of Cranbrook, B.C. He was in his early eighties and had lived in Laskay most of his life. In later years, he retired to King City, where his wife died some years ago. Mr. Sinclair was of Scotch descent, his parents coming from the Isle of Iona, off the west coast of Scotland, the isle where St. Columba preached in the days of inspired missionaries, following the preaching of St. Patrick.

Mr. Sinclair's son, Gordon, died in a Toronto hospital not long before his father. A son, Duncan, lives in Lindsay, and another son, Roy, in Orillia. Mrs. Williams, a daughter, lives in Cranbrook, B.C.

The community regrets the early passing of an Eversley boy, Harry Scott, son of the late Thomas Scott, later of Toronto. Mr. Scott was born on the old Scott farm, near the mill pond, at Eversley, nearly 54 years ago. While a boy, his parents moved to King, and later to Toronto.

Mr. Scott died suddenly on Wednesday. Weakened by hemorrhages of the stomach, he succumbed to a heart attack.

His wife survives him, and one sister, Alma, Mrs. E. P. Burns, of 86 Douglas Drive, Toronto, and a large number of cousins, who mourn his passing.

REPORT $1,100 RAISED DURING PAST YEAR

(Oct. 5)

The 13th autumn rally of the northern section of the Toronto Centre Presbyterian W.M.S. was held in the United church, Aurora, on Thursday, with Mrs. W. J. Thompson, vice-president of Toronto Centre Presbyterian presiding. Keswick Auxiliary was responsible for the devotional period, under the leadership of Mrs. Vail, who gave a very inspiring opening message, which was followed by a prayer led by Mrs. Willoughby, and scripture reading by Miss Marriott, on the theme "The power of Jesus in times of trouble and the urgent need of prayer." A duet by two auxiliary members closed this period.

It was moved by Mrs. Vail and seconded by Mrs. Maitland that Mrs. Seldon be appointed as secretary of the Toronto Centre Presbyterian to carry on through the coming year.

Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson, pastor of the Aurora church welcomed the ladies, and gave them a very timely and heart-felt message.

Mrs. Self brought greetings from the president, and told of the inspiration she invariably received from such loyal auxiliary members.

It was moved by Mrs. White and seconded by Mrs. Vail that greetings be sent to the Sudbury Presbyterian and moved by Mrs. Maitland and seconded by Mrs. Hamilton that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. De La Haye.

Mrs. Maitland gave a talk on "The Grace of Beneficence."

The collection netted $13.75 for the Aurora auxiliary after paying $2 expenses.

Ninety-six members answered the roll call. There was an attendance of 125. Money reported raised this year amounted to $1,100.

The guest speaker of the afternoon was Miss Cora Kilborn, candidate secretary, who is at present in Canada, after two terms in hospital work in west China. The W.M.S. hospital in which she worked, Miss Kilborn stated, has grown from 65 patients in a small house per year to a 125 bed hospital accommodating 2,000 patients annually. The government and people of China welcome the missionaries, and missionary women should be prepared to meet the challenge, she said.

Mrs. Wilcox sang an appropriate solo, "Bless Thou, O God, This Day." By a vote of appreciation all taking part and contributing to the success of the rally were thanked, and Dr. Thompson dismissed the meeting with the benediction.

SCHOMBERG FIREMEN FIGHT FIRES BEFORE THEY START

(Oct. 5)

The Schomberg fire brigade is making special plans for the observance of Fire Prevention Week this year. Since this will mark the first attempt as such activities here, some information may be of interest.

Each year the week including Oct. 9 is designated in Canada and the United States as Fire Prevention week. This week is chosen as Oct. 9 is the anniversary of the great Chicago fire. For years past, in all large centres, a special educational campaign has been carried on, pointing out to the people the common causes of fires and suggestions to reduce the great loss sustained each year.

All fire brigades have been requested by the Ontario fire marshal's department to make a special endeavor this year to reduce fire waste. In part this letter reads:

"Conservation of life and property is of even more vital importance now than in time of peace. The sinews of our country must be kept at full strength, and industry and commerce must be protected against unnecessary losses by fire."

The men are complimented on their initiative in promoting such a worthy cause as attempting to prevent the great wastage through unnecessary fires. All citizens are asked to co-operate with them in their work.

The brigade has purchased considerable literature for distribution during this week. They state that a house-to-house canvass is intended, when pamphlets on fire prevention will be delivered.

Mrs. Mie Sedore is feeling better, and able to be out a little, after being confined to her bed for some time.

The community is glad to see T. W. Huntley out after his being confined to his home with a bad cold.

The weather has been grand and the trees are tinted beautifully. The country is really lovely.

KETTLEBY POPULAR BRIDE-TO-BE HONORED BY FRIENDS

(Oct. 5)

A profitable time was spent last Thursday afternoon when the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. H. Fry. A splendid paper was given by Mrs. Willis of Vandon in "Legislation." The roll call was answered by "a favorite quotation from prose or poetry."

About 50 people attended the shower that was given in honor of Miss Margaret Brown, a bride-to-be, at her home Tuesday night. Many lovely and useful gifts were received by the popular young lady.

The Anglican Thanksgiving services will be held on Sunday, Oct. 15.
